Elvis Shocks the Nation

By 1956, Elvis Presley had already hit No. 1 on the music charts with “Heartbreak Hotel,” and he was becoming a rock ‘n’ roll sensation, but nothing prepared the public for his live performance of “Hound Dog” on The Milton Berle Show on June 5, 1956. Elvis had already appeared on television several times, including on The Milton Berle Show. But in these appearances, Elvis was always filmed close-up or behind his guitar. On June 5, the 21-year-old Elvis was televised head to toe, swinging his hips in wild gyrations as he danced, earning the moniker “Elvis the Pelvis.” The next day, critics across the country roundly criticized Elvis, calling him vulgar and untalented. Ed Sullivan declared Elvis would never

on his show. None of this criticism stopped Elvis from becoming rock ‘n’ roll’s first superstar. In the end, Elvis’ critics had to eat their words.
